TIB welcomes ACC’s move, demands to spare none

Transparency International Bangladesh (TIB) hailed Anti Corruption Commission’s (ACC) move to probe into unusual wealth gain by Ministers of immediate the passed government and MPs of the ninth parliament. In a press statement issued on 27th January, TIB also demanded probing other similar cases and spare none. The anti-corruption watchdog also demanded cancellation of 32 (2) and 32 (ka) articles of the newly amended Anti Corruption Commission (Amendment) Act 2009 that made the ACC a toothless cat.

In a statement, TIB’s Executive Director Dr Iftekharuzzaman said “Such unusual rise in wealth is anti-constitutional according to Article 20(2) of the constitution. We are happy to see that ACC has moved from its earlier position of not investigating such matters, however, ACC has to show highest level of professionalism in this regard and must not spare anyone who had gained such unusual and unexplainable wealth.” “If anyone is spared, ACC must disclose the criteria of such exclusion to the public”, he added.

Dr Zaman said, “Passing of the said act at the very last session of the ninth parliament that kept the provision of seeking prior approval from the government to file cases against public official is unconstitutional”. “This is a clear conspiracy and stance against government’s commitment to fight corruption”, he observed.

TIB hails HC’s verdict on ACC Act

TIB hailed High Court’s (HC) verdict on Anti-corruption Commission (Amendment) Act 2013 that declared articles 32(2) and 32(ka) unconstitutional and scrapped the provision of taking permission from the government prior to file corruption cases against public officials. It also hailed Human Rights and Peace for Bangladesh for filling the writ petition that challenged legality of the controversial provisions. TIB urged the government to immediately start the process to nullify the amended act and take necessary actions as per HC guidance.

In a statement on 30th January, Executive Director of TIB Dr Iftekharuzzaman said, “The verdict has upheld people’s constitutional rights to be treated equally.” “These black provisions in the amended act made the ACC ineffective and created ample space for impunity against corruption.” He added.

“The prime minister at the very first cabinet meeting reiterated her commitment to show zero tolerance against corruption. She also directed parliamentarians to stay away from any kind of corruption and irregularities. Now, is the time to show proof of such stance by taking adequate anti-corruption steps,” the statement said.

The verdict has upheld people’s constitutional rights to be treated equally. These black provisions in the amended act made the ACC ineffective and created ample space for impunity against corruption.”

Earlier on 17th November, TIB in a letter urged the President not to assent to the amended Act and on 19 November reasserted the same demand to the President during a press conference saying the proposed amendments were anti-constitutional, contradictory with the electoral pledges of the government and against the United Nations Convention against Corruption (UNCAC) of which Bangladesh is a party. TIB felt that this verdict will contribute in enhancing people’s confidence over the judiciary.

TIB, CCCs and YES condemn attack on minorities, demand judicial probe

TIB and Committee of Concerned Citizens (CCC) and youth Engagement and Support (YES) members strongly condemned attacks on minorities and urged the government to initiate judicial probe into such ill-motivated attacks to bring the perpetrators under trial, take effective steps to protect victims’ lives and properties and compensate them as well. Over the last few days, the minorities came under heavy attack at several upazillas of Dinajpur, Jessore, Sathkhira, Chittagong and Thakurgaon.

In a statement on 7th January, Executive Director of TIB Dr Iftekharuzzaman said, “Attacks on the minority communities and their religious entities are against the spirit of the Liberation War and spirit of Independence. Such attacks are not acceptable at all in a country that believes in the communal harmony and equal rights of all citizens, irrespective of caste and creed.” “Such ill motivated and political onslaughts and intimidation on minorities prior to parliament election may take a deadly turn if the administration, law enforcing agencies and above all political leaders do not take immediate steps to stop it,” he added.

He also said, “Even after presence of military forces, such attacks indicates failure of election commission, law enforces agencies and administration. The concerned authority did not take adequate measures to avoid repetition of politically backed attacks on minorities that took place immediate after the national election in 2001.

Different Committee of Concerned Citizens (CCC) and Youth Engagement and Support (YES) groups also organised rallies, human chain and condemning attacks on religious minority communities. TIB and CCCs YES groups demanded protection, compensations and independent judicial probe into these incidents of attacks and urged

Money-driven control of global cricket will invite further risk of corruption; two-tier system of test cricket is discriminatory

TIB in a statement on 28th January strongly condemned the proposed two-tier system of test matches. TIB observed that the newly proposed money driven system is discriminatory and called upon the International Cricket Council (ICC) and all national cricket authorities including Bangladesh to do everything possible to prevent such self-defeating reforms.

In a press statement issued on 28 January, Dr Iftekharuzzaman, Executive Director of TIB said, “the proposed two-tiers system is highly discriminatory, conspiratorial and unjustified. It will eliminate relatively newer test playing nations like Bangladesh from the global cricketing arena, which is absolutely unacceptable”.

“Nothing but a fear of being defeated by teams like Bangladesh who have already demonstrated the capacity to win against the so-called elite teams can explain such a cowardly and ill-motivated move,” he said. “We also call for rejecting the proposal to delink ICC from the future tour programmes (FTP) which will convert FTP into exclusive domain of bilateral arrangements”, the TIB statement said.
“We are deeply concerned that the proposed changes will create concentration of power in the so-called big three (Australia, India and UK). There will be no effective representation of other cricketing nations in governance of global cricket. The creation of reserved places for the three in the proposed four-member executive committee of ICC will create the scope of abuse of power with a full range of unaccountable authority which cannot serve the interest of the game. All these are contradictory to good governance in global cricket, to which ICC is committed to”, said Iftekharuzzaman.

The statement further said that the proposed reforms will transform the ‘gentleman’s game’ of cricket into a business enterprise for quick profit at the expense of sportsmanship, morality and level playing field. The priority given to money power will expose cricket to further risks of corruption both on and off the field, which is unacceptable and must be rejected without any hesitation.

A joint statement issued on 27 January by 9 cricket loving national chapters of Transparency International (TI) in Australia, Bangladesh, India, Jamaica, Netherlands, Pakistan, Sri Lanka, Trinidad & Tobago and United Kingdom is attached. The statement has been directly sent to ICC and BCB.

Female YES learns to fight online harassments, vows to spread the fight

The power of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) and social media in bringing positive change in the society is acknowledged globally. Yet with its spread online harassment against young females and girls has been a recent phenomenon and Bangladesh is no exception. This is not because of the spread or strong presence of ICT rather a tendency among a section of users to negatively use ICT. Keeping this in mind Dhaka YES and Bangladesh Open Source Network (BdOSN) organised an open seminar titled “Combating Online Harassment of Women through Information and Communication Technology” on 29 January 2014 at the R C Majumder Art Auditorium of Dhaka University. Mr A A Munir Hasan, General Secretary, BdOSN presented the key note paper at the seminar while Dr Suraiya Pervin, Professor, Department of Computer Science and Engineering, University of Dhaka and Ms Luna Shamsuddoha, Chairman, Dohatech Mr Jabeed Morshed, Joint Secretary, BdOSN discussed. Around 100 female YES members learned techniques on how to apply ICT tools to fight harassment and also to raise awareness at mass level. They also learned how to maintain security while using social networks and communicate through e-mails.

The Keynote presenter discussed about how ICT contributes in ensuring social justice and promoting good governance. He then focused on how online harassments occur. Users on good faith disclose security features like password to their close friends and husbands and as a result they easily become vulnerable to harassments. Once a close friend or a beloved husband, harasses her female friend or ex-wife. Mr Munir then continued on techniques of online security. He urged the participants to build knowledge, evidence and awareness to initiate a social movement against online harassment and ensure social injustice for females.

After the presentation, YES members shared their harassment experiences and asked various questions around the topic. The speaker and discussants answered to these and probable remedies. The discussants urged the participants not to hide anything particularly from parents and concerned authorities and be vocal against any sort of online harassment. They said that any kind of harassment is punishable by law if the victim takes immediate actions. Mentionable that the Ministry of Women and Children Affairs (MoWCA) is operating a helpline (16921) that provides quick support to victims.

In the context of digitalisation, this seminar is expected to sensitise and aware participants to positively use social media and ICT, fight and launch a social movement.
